We know how hard it is to write a research paper, essay, report or present a speech. Whether you are in primary, secondary, or post-secondary school, you are trying to have a life outside of school activities. It takes a lot of time and effort to come up with a topic for a paper, do the research, and then actually write the research paper (essay). Whether you do not have a clue on how to write a research paper or you do not have the time, this ebook research guide can help. We have done the research and a lot of the work for you. This ebook has a lot of the information that you will need to help you write a five to ten-page research paper, or give a speech, on why you feel that “Cyber Bullying Should Be a Crime and the Legal System Should Treat Cyber Bullying Accordingly.” The information within this research guide leads you to information that helps you argue that cyber bullying is a very serious matter and should be treated as a crime, rather than a situation where the bullies just need to attend some type of educational workshop.

After a short introduction to the topic, this research guide presents:

- Example of an introductory paragraph with THESIS statement.
- Example of a possible outline for your paper, essay, or speech.
- List of books on cyber bullying, published within the last five-years that you may be able to find in your library. If the library does not have the books, please ask the librarian if they have a free interlibrary loan service so that they can retrieve the book for you. A majority of libraries within the U.S. offer a free interlibrary loan service.
- List of credible journal, magazine, and newspaper articles on this specific topic that have been published within the last five-years. Some of these articles will be FREE online and we provide the URL address. Some of these articles may be located at a library in publications on the shelf or within periodical databases such as InfoTrac, EBSCO, and ProQuest. If the library does not have the information, then please ask them if they can interlibrary loan the information, for free.
- List of credible websites on this specific topic.
- Actual example of a five-page MLA formatted research paper (Click on the PDF links within this ebook) on why “Cyber Bullying Should Be a Crime and the Legal System Should Treat Cyber Bullying Accordingly.” This includes the introductory paragraph with thesis statement, body of paper supporting the thesis statement, concluding paragraph with restating the thesis, and the works cited page. We cite nine different authors (sources) “in text.”
- Suggestions on how to expand this paper to a ten or twenty-page paper.
- We have tried to list books, magazine, newspaper, and journal articles that have been published within the last five years. We know that many teachers want current information. A majority of the resources have been published within the past five years, but we have included a list of some resources that are a little older than five years. These older sources are so helpful that we felt that we should list them. You do not have to cite information from these older sources, but you can use them to understand and get ideas about cyber bullying.

We know that MLA format is extremely important, so we provide links throughout this ebook to a PDF file of this entire ebook, including the sample five-page paper. We HIGHLY recommend that you click on the PDF link to view this entire ebook in PDF so that the spacing, hanging indentations, and other MLA formatting will be correct. A PDF file has the tendency to lock in the proper paragraphs, spacing, indentations, and much more.
