Social Media Cash Cows

Many people start servicing customers from their homes, and it doesn't take long before your name gets out into the community, as you advertise online. Many people can pick up $1000 a month to maintain three social media sites for each client, and you should be able to maintain five or six customers every month. During the last couple years there has been a huge shift of online traffic, and most of it is going through some social media networks.

There's a huge demand for social media managers that can update these accounts daily, and people are working from the comfort of their home, and making thousands of dollars a week.
