This is a fictional story about teenagers growing up as Christians. The events are real life situations, and offers tense moments and humorous circumstances. It is centered on a teenager, Frank Graham,, who grows up in a Christian home, but realizes that he must personally seek God's plan for his life. Along the way, Frank encounters conflicts from his peers, and even adults, but at the same time, discovers other adolescents who know Jesus as their Savior, and desire to follow Him. The story addresses the developmental stages in an adolescent's life which involve the physical, emotional, and spiritual. Family relationships, peer pressures, and responsibilities (school, activities, dating, sports, etc.) are also discussed. The contents were compiled by the author, based on his studies and personal involvement with adolescents and their development. His years of experience with adolescents have been in secular education as a guidance counselor in the elementary, middle, and high school settings, and also, in Christian ministries.
